Accreditation Committee Studies College Plant

The Accreditation Committee for the Evaluation of San Francisco State College for the State Board of Education visited the campus last week on January 3 and 4, according to Dean P. F. Valentine, vice-president of the college.

The Committee inspected the facilities of the college for the granting of the general secondary credential and will make a report to the State Board of Education on its findings. "We sincerely hope that the State Board of Education will act upon the report at its March meeting," Dean Valentine said.

Members of the Committee are: Chairman Aubrey Douglass, City Superintendent of Schools, Modesto; Margaret Erdt, Supervisor of Art, San Diego Schools; Willard S. Ford, City Superintendent of Schools, Glendale; Elizabeth Kelly, Professor of Physical Education, Pomona College; Irwin O. Addicott, Assistant Superintendent of Fresno City Schools; Max T. Krone, Associate Director of the School of Music, University of Southern California; and Lynn White, Jr., President, Mills College.

FOUR STATE INSTRUCTORS RETURN THIS SPRING

At the opening of the spring semester in February, four San Francisco State faculty members will resume their full time positions on the teaching staff.

Three of the professors to be welcomed back from the armed forces are Dr. George Gibson, assistant professor of history returning from the Navy; Mr. John Gutmann, assistant professor of art, and Mr. De Calvus Simonson, instructor in English, both returning from the Army.

Dr. R. Will Burnett, professor of education and biological sciences who has been teaching on a part-time basis during the fall term, will assume a full-time position at the opening of the new semester. Professor Burnett hails from the Stanford School of Education.

GATER'S JOURNALISTIC ACHIEVEMENTS Praised BY MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Praise of the journalistic achievements of the Golden Gater is contained in a letter sent by Dr. William Knuth, chairman of the department of music, to Dr. Edward E. Cassidy, sponsor of journalism.

"My sincerest congratulations to you and the staff of the Golden Gater for the issue of December 14," Dr. Knuth wrote. "I have marked and sent copies to a selected list of educators and professional men chosen for their music-education influence in the various areas of the country."

"There is a high esprit de corps in your organization," he continued. "Please pass on my word of appreciation to your staff and tell them that I was indeed proud to have the opportunity to mail these copies of the Gater."

"The Music Department extends best wishes to your staff for their work of the coming year and for the important part they are playing in making our mutual dreams for State a reality."

English Class Essay Contest Ends Friday

Furrowed brows are in fashion among students of English 2 classes as this semester's semi-annual essay contest gets under way.

With deadline set for next Friday, January 18, all members of the basic English composition course are now busily wracking their wits for something original to say in their 1000-word essays on such topics as "The Value of Student Publications," "The Arts in Everyday Life," "Catching Up With Science," and "The Comics as a Mirror of Our Times."

The authors of the three best essays will be awarded prizes by the English department at an informal tea, which will be held in the Activities room Thursday afternoon, January 24. The staffs of the Golden Gator, Franciscan, and Inklings will be guests of honor at the tea, along with the contest winners.

All English 2 students are invited to attend the literary event.

SORRY—NO MORE COPIES; INKLINGS ALL SOLD OUT

INKLINGS, State's all-student literary magazine, sold out for the second consecutive semester, its editors announced this week.

Many students who had not reserved their copies were "turned away." A total of 325 copies were issued, an increase of 125 over last term's output. All profits will go into a permanent fund for the perpetuation of the magazine.

Students interested in taking an active part in the publication, either in writing or production, should make themselves known immediately by dropping a note into box 1006. Plans for next semester's issue are under way.

This semester's staff would like to thank the student body and faculty for the cordial reception given to the issue, and for the kind encouragement extended from many quarters.

With Monday noon the final deadline for nominations for "Queen of the Junior Prom," the contest is well on its way toward becoming the outstanding feature of the outstanding social event of the year.

Lou Rubin, junior class president, said this week, "We have been flooded with nominations, and the secret board of seven judges will have a wide field from which to select the most beautiful woman at State."

The board will be chosen by Rubin, and will consist of seven student body men who are known for their ability to appraise the charms of femmes fatale. The seven will select the queen and two princesses, all of whom will be crowned at the prom. The queen will be especially honored by being presented a beautiful 13-inch trophy.

The prom will be set in the Spanish Room of the Hotel Claremont, deep in the Berkeley Hills. Music will be provided by the radio orchestra of Bert Whiting, which has recently been featured at proms at the San Mateo Country Club, Stanford University, St. Mary's College, U.S.F., and other large bay area schools. The dance is definitely of a formal nature, with evening gowns for the women and tuxedos or dinner jackets for the men the vogue.

Bids for the dance will go on sale Monday, and will cost $2.25 with a student body card, and $3 without a card. The bids are now being designed and President Rubin promises one of the most attractive dance bids in recent years. Tickets will be sold next week in front of the post boxes, from 11 to 1 o'clock, and all day long during the following week.

Although the dance will be held in Berkeley, Rubin anticipates little difficulty in transportation. All students with cars are urged to plan double and triple dates, and those couples who are unable to obtain transportation in this way may meet at the East Bay Terminal at First and Mission Streets, at 8:30. A train going directly to the Claremont will leave at 8:40 and arrive at the hotel at 9:15. The grand coronation of the queen and the queen's waltz will take place promptly at 11.

Statens are urged to purchase their tickets early, as only a limited number of bids will be available, in order to insure that the dance floor will not be too crowded for enjoyable dancing.

DR. IVERSON TO RETURN TO SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Dr. Jesse J. Iverson, assistant professor in biological sciences, will return to his teaching position next semester.

Dr. Iverson, who has been on military leave, was a flight surgeon with the rank of captain in the Army. He will have the same classes that he formerly had, including the anatomy laboratory, with which he is most closely associated. He will also be back in Dr. Martin Debenham's office to hold office hours.

Newman Club Reorganized; Open House, Dance Planned

The Newman Club, national Catholic organization, after a period of inactivity during the war, has been reorganized and a social and business program for the next semester worked out.

OPEN HOUSE

An Open House at the Sienna Club for the entire State student body, a picnic and a dance are included in the tentative program for next semester, according to President Phil Ryan. "In previous years the Newman Club Open House at the beginning of each semester was a traditional affair," stated Ryan. "We hope to restore it to its old popularity." Purpose of the open house is to acquaint the non-Catholics with the work of the club and solicit membership among the new Catholic students.

Next Meeting

The next general meeting of the club will be Wednesday, January 23, at the Sienna Club. Father Murray, Newman Club Chaplain, will speak to the members.

Members of the club will attend mass and communion at the Mission Dolores church on Sunday, January 20. Breakfast will be held in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel.

Craft Show Set For Thursday

Crafts in action will be demonstrated at an informal gathering in the Activities Room January 17 from 2 to 4. Members of the Art 75 and 171AB classes will demonstrate the making of silk screen prints, books, boxes and toys, and will display other crafts.

The Art 35 class in color and design will collaborate with the other group, and will show original ideas for designs that could be worked out in the different media.

Tea will be served under the supervision of Dean Mary Ward. Instructor for the art demonstrations will be Mrs. Susan Benteen Irwin. The affair is open to the student body.

Eleanor Gagle claims her copy of INKLINGS as Doris Thulin and Vivian Allen (l. to r.) give her a "Don't you want another one?" look. Hy Bik makes off like he's writing, and Gene Benefiel looks on to see that the girls don't short change

World Student Fund Drive To Be Sponsored by IRC

The International Relations Club, under the leadership of Doris Hoffman, will begin the World Student Service Fund drive next week.

Each student will be asked to donate a dollar and the faculty members will be asked for donations of five dollars.

The various campus organizations will be requested to participate in the drive, which will continue throughout next week and possibly longer.

The purpose of the drive is to support the organization which has been aiding students throughout the whole world. The need for funds to provide books and equipment for students in war-torn countries is evident. The money collected by State students will go into a general fund which will help reconstruct student life in many countries.

Spring Graduations To Be Held in the Activities Room

Graduates of the fall semester will receive their teaching credentials in a ceremony to be held in the Activities Room on Friday, February 1, at 2:30 o'clock.

Dr. J. Paul Leonard, president of the college, will present the credentials to the graduates. Under the leadership of Dean Mary A. Ward, the College Social Committee will serve refreshments from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. Faculty members and friends of the graduates are invited to be present.

Three of State's lovelies anxiously look forward to the results of the Junior Prom Queen contest. Or could it be that evening that attracts them?

MY REVERIE

By LOU RUBIN

While we are in the process of concluding the last lap of our activities this term, the programming for next semester and finals turn our thoughts to next term. We all resolve to make certain changes for the better in our school life, to boost our grade point, and to generally improve upon this term. To me the spring term has somehow always seemed to be the more enjoyable of the two. We enter the term, already deep in the midst of school life, there are but a few school customs to recondition ourselves to.

The weather turns warm, and the lawn above the tennis courts replaces the smoke porch as the central point of congregation. The coats and sweaters are stored, and the colorful blouses, jumpers and summer dresses are brought out by the women, and the men return to sport shirts and T-shirts. Along about May I love to fall in a kind of lazy contented mood, to bask in the sun and study or talk. I rather think that I show more love for life and my fellow men, at this time of the year than at any other period. My thoughts begin to turn toward the summer vacation, I think, and mediate, and generally enjoy the art of living.

Even as I write this I stop and reminisce over the preceding summers that I have spent at State. For I think that it is in the late spring term that I come nearest to the acme of life's content, and appreciate the joy of existence.

Letter to Editor

I am practice teaching in Fred-eric Burk and I am unable to come up at 12 on Fridays to get the school paper. I think it would be a good idea if you put the practice teacher's papers in their boxes or sent a number of papers down to the Frederic Burk office so we can get one. As things are now, I never know what is going on in college.

PETITIONS FOR GATER

Petitions for Gater staff position must be in by Monday, January 14, and will be announced at the Gater banquet. All petitions should be placed in either Dr. Edward Cassady's or Caroline Nahman's box. More than one position should be listed, in the order of preference, and qualifications should be stated; students may petition for any position on the staff.

How To Beat The Finals

By HY BIK

Since we are finally approaching the term's finale, it's time to bring an air of finality to the question of how to pass finals. The success of any ambitious scholar depends to a large extent upon how well he can memorize big or unusual words—like Scheherazade, gefiltefish, and noodnik. We have an A-1 ipsy-pipsy method which we guarantee to succeed, and if it doesn't, excellent working conditions, good pay, apply the Pacific Tel. and Tel. Co.

First, take off your shoes and stockings and place both your feet up on a table. Study them very carefully. Dirty, aren't they?

Next, if you are a boy, take out your pen. If you are a girl, take out a bottle of nail polish. If you are not sure what you are, we sincerely advise you never to take out anything.

Now, write a different letter of the troublesome word on each of your toe nails. If there are more than twelve letters involved, write down the first dozen and just don't bother with the remainder. The wearing of open-toed shoes the next morning would aid materially in the success of this scheme, but if you can't remember the word after going through those contortions, you deserve to flunk.

Many students cramming before a final find trouble in keeping awake. If they perform the first step of the above plan, keeping all their windows shut, they will not have this trouble. Getting up in time for the exam is of course an entirely different matter. Place a filled goldfish bowl in front of your bedroom window so that the sun's rays are focused on a stack of matches in the middle of the room. When the sun comes up in the morning, the matches ignite and set the rug on fire. The flames spread to your bed, burning the sheets and pillows and melting the wax in your ears. You will now be able to hear the alarm clock when it goes off.

INKLINGS

The fall, 1945, edition of Inklings, student literary magazine, which emerges from the mimeograph this week, seems a significant step toward achieving a mature and vigorous campus periodical for serious undergraduate writers.

The current Inklings marks a definite advance over the initial edition of the magazine, published last spring, in nearly every respect. The makeup is attractive, the stories, poems, and essays are fresh, provocative, varied, and free from academic taint. In other words, the periodical is downright interesting.

Perhaps no two readers would agree as to the outstanding literary contributions of the issue, but it seems to me Hy Hik's "Cathie and the Giant" and Eugene Benefiel's "A Knightly Tale" are excellent examples of imaginative fiction. The dramatic irony of Bik's story mounts to an almost unbearable intensity. The ironic implications of "A Knightly Tale" remind the reader of the devastating irony in the works of James Branch Cabell.

Norman Barish's essay, "Let's Dance," makes a forceful plea for a healthy and creative American dance, although it strikes me as being overly dogmatic. The four lyrics by Yvonne Sammann contain some exciting images and evoke a variety of emotional responses.

Bik's "Prelude to Something" may cause some readers to squirm as they follow the stream of consciousness that flows through a lover's mind as he contemplates his beloved. These thoughts are unconventional and perhaps unpleasant, but psychologically sound.

Pauline McKinnell shows unusual descriptive talent in her sketch of "Ashley Park," but it seems a trifle superficial. Nevertheless it shows promise of better things to come in its abundance of spontaneous and vivid images.

Although George Petropoulos deals with a valid theme in his "The Blind Embrace," the story does not quite click. Again, as in other material of Inklings, this story has vitality. Benefiel's one poetic contribution, "Cycle," offers a few new ideas on the age-old subject of the moon.

With all its virtues, Inklings would have profited by the inclusion of some humor. Undergraduate writing universally suffers from a tendency toward excessive seriousness.

The editorial staff of Bik, Benefiel, Doris Thulin, Vivian Allen, Betty Hickman and Anne Chick has earned the plaudits of students and faculty for the enterprise they have seen through from manuscript to finished publication. They have done good work.

A democracy with freedom and equal opportunity for all—that is what they call America. A world of its own where educational institutions are commended and funds are raised to erect new colleges and universities, so that all men may have the benefit of their learning.

America—a country now planning to fulfill her obligation to the war-torn nations of Europe in the form of education for all, men, therefore, who can have no both young and old. An America prepared to send professors and instructors overseas for the purpose.

An America, also, that found that a large number of the young men inducted for service at the outbreak of World War II could neither read nor write. Men "educated" in America who could not affix their own signatures to induction papers, who could not write answers to classification tests—American youth!

Officers in charge were shocked—this thing couldn't be. American men, American youth? The army found that it could be and immediately provided schools where these men were taught to read and write the language of their country—their America.

Areas in the southern part of the United States, particularly, are still in a deplorable condition with regard to education. Many of the south's isolated communities consist of men and women who are illiterate. Men and women, therefore, who can have no real interest in American affairs. They cannot read newspapers, nor correspond in writing with one another. They might even be called "American outcasts of the south, and other areas of the country, pay teachers such small salaries that they are not able to insure competent instruction.

This condition exists today—now! Should not America face and meet the needs of her own uneducated peoples, if she hopes to succeed in re-educating the world?

A Year's Reflection

By DORIS THULIN

Matthew Clark sat in his main street office while he waited for his business associate to read the last of the contracts. The annual end-of-the-year business meeting was to be held that evening, so he and Frank could dine together beforehand—there wouldn't be time to go home.

He picked up the evening paper, read the stock markets, and then he saw it tucked into the last lines of the page as a space-filler. He thought back over the past year and shivered slightly, feeling his neck warm under his collar. Why should he feel this way? Business was his world and he had conquered it.

He was a favorite among his associates and his level head demanded admiration and respect. He had many invitations to dinners, cocktail parties, receptions and the like, and people often dropped in to visit him at the office. His yacht was the pride of the social elite and his two business cars brought awe into the eyes of youngsters. His bank account was larger than those of any of his friends, and his office parties never failed to make headlines on the society page. He had done all right in his world of business.

His mind turned then to his home, which it didn't often do. He wasn't in the habit of allowing himself a moment alone with thought, but now the little things that had occurred during the past year filed through his mind and would not be repressed. He hadn't been home to dinner one night in the last two weeks; business came before pleasure. He thought of his daughter's coming marriage—he didn't even know the date of the ceremony. He thought of the Red Cross drive for funds of which his wife was chairman. Had they reached their quota? He didn't know. Had Jimmy passed his final exams at college? He didn't know that either. He had been wrapped up in business and his own mind had not had a chance to breathe.

Suddenly it was all clear to him. He reached for his hat, told Frank he would see him later, and left the office. The family had dinner at seven. And on Matthew Clark's desk lay the evening paper with the space-filler at the bottom of the page. "What profiteth a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

You Can Be An AIRLINE STEWARDESS

Today United Air Lines is seeking young women to begin the interesting career of flying the nation's airways as stewardesses on its Mainliners.

The requirements are:

- Age—21 to 26 years
- Height—5' 2" to 5' 6"
- Weight—125 lbs. or less
- Unmarried
- Good Health and Vision
- United States Citizen
- 2 Years College, or Registered Nurse

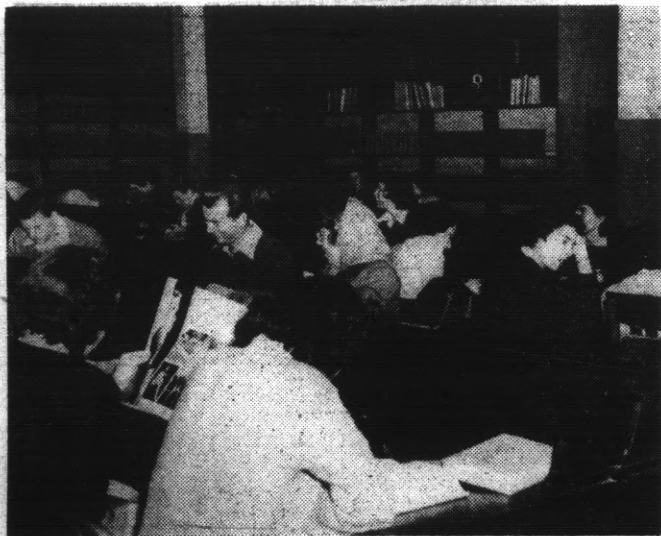

Successful applicants will be furnished transportation to Chicago where they will receive four weeks training at full pay.

Young women who can meet the above qualifications but who are not available for employment at the present time should apply now for future Stewardess classes.

A new booklet "How to Become a Mainliner Stewardess" is now available.

SPORT DOPE By SCOTT HOPE

The past week has looked a lot like old home week. Men recently discharged from the service, still in, or on terminal leave have been wandering in and out of our hallowed halls, taking in basketball games, or just plain hangin' around. Among those that this scribe has seen have been big Bill Stine, the ex-football star and shot-putter; Alex Vladimiroff, the footballer and wrestler; Jim Keating, perhaps State's greatest all-around athlete; basketballers Norm Keller and Aimee Fanfelle; ex-yell king, Ivor Callo-way; George Droulette, who holds the State gym scoring record; ex-Gator Sports Editor Terry Kilpatrick; Hal and Bob, the rest of the Keller boys; the Vasquez', Louie and Mario; Bob Paladori, and many others.

Events Coming Up This Week

Friday and Saturday—State versus Chico State at Kezar.
Wednesday State plays San Jose at San Jose.
Thursday Athletic Carnival.

Man of the Week

The unanimous choice for this week's Scotty is scrappy Don Ellis, the ex-air force bombardier. Don's performance in the San Jose State game was by far his best thus far this season, and off that performance he appears to have earned a starting berth.

Ad Trivia

Another call has gone out from Coach Ray Kaufman to candidates for this year's track squad. This call is particularly directed to new students and returning veterans. Those interested can contact Ray either at the training quarters or at the Men's PE Department . . . ditto Hal Harden and baseball . . . Wonder if Mel Martin, Jack Pileri, Grove Mohr, and Ed Dunn will ever get tired of Pedro? . . .

Take Us Out To the Ball Game

State will play three games in the next six days. Tonight and tomorrow they meet Chico State and Wednesday they go down to San Jose. That rep that we got out at Cal certainly took a helluva beating in the first San Jose game at Kezar. Come on . . . let's get out to these games. A certain ex-student at State took a swipe at the present student body of State when he said that this was the worst attendance he had ever seen at a State game . . . and in comparison to other games, Cal excluded, that attendance was good. Remember Friday and Saturday at Kezar . . . and Wednesday at San Jose!

See ya there!

Table Tennis

Why doesn't someone here at State organize a ping-pong tournament? There are several guys and gals here who can swing a mean paddle; Mark Gelles, Jim McCann, and this scribe's boss, Don Pagani, are but a few who would participate. Jean Spaulding is a femme who no doubt would be interested in such a venture.

W. A. A.

Tuesday two volley ball games were played, the Vollettes winning from the Alley Gators while Alpha Omega lost to the Six Aces, 38 to 44.

Next Monday the schedule will be completed when the Batties play the Humming Birds and the Six Aces take on the Vollettes.

Next Wednesday, January 16, WAA will hold its "Fall Spread" at noon.

For participating in two sports a semester for six semesters, Frances Galloway will receive a gold "S" pin.

Block "S" letters, received after taking part in two sports a semester for four semesters, will be awarded to Marjorie Erickson and Mary Lonich.

Having participated in two sports a semester for two semesters, Shirley Perry, Audrey Scon-triano, Helen Hansen, Lena Struckmeyer, and Rosanne Jaensch will receive "Wings."

A high senior who has rendered outstanding service to WAA and who has a 1.5 grade point average will be awarded a service pin.

Last Monday the women's physical education department had a volley ball sports day with San Francisco Junior College. The Staters won the game 32 to 26. A return sports day, to be held in the women's gym, is being scheduled by Miss Shirley Perry.

LODGE RESERVED FOR SKI CLASS

Lodging arrangements for PE 16B, skiing in the snow area, have been completed. Exclusive use of Kiski Lodge at Donner Summit has been obtained by 21 students signed for the second half of the ski course. Special rates for both the lodging and ski instruction have been given the students.

Miss Doris Holtz and Mr. Harold Harden are working on bus transportation for the group.

The skiers will leave San Francisco Sunday, February 3, and return on Friday, the eighth, after spending six days working out in the snow. Each day the class will spend six hours skiing—two hours of instructions in the morning and four hours of practice in the afternoon.

In the evening there will be programmed instructions stressing safety and preparation.

Miss Holtz hopes the group will be able to go on a cross-country tour and build a bonfire in the snow before coming back to San Francisco.

Block S Wins 26-16

John Grantham's ten points led the Block "S" quintet to a 26 to 16 victory over the Junior Gators Wednesday. Don Pagani and John Scharetz also scored six points each for the winners.

Annual Indoor Sports Carnival to Be Held Thursday in Gym

The 1946 edition of State's annual indoor sports carnival will be presented to the student body next Thursday in the women's gym during the noon hour.

Feature of the program will be boxing and wrestling matches. Elm Roelling will grapple with Dave DuBois on the mat; John Nazar and Bob Seiler will square off against each other in the squared circle, and Jim McCann and Jack Pileri will trade blows.

Crowd Pleaser

The faculty quartet, which has been popular with the crowds at previous functions, will perform, and the faculty from the men's P. E. department will present a skit.

Fencing and dancing demonstrations will be put on by the women's P. E. department.

Rose Bowlers Entered

The famed Rose Bowlers, unbeaten in football and basketball competition, are entered as a team in the rope-climbing relay race.

Among the other events listed are a trampoline act by Vince McGrath and a bag-punching exhibition by Vin O'Leary.

The school band will furnish music. Admission is free.

GATOR QUINTETS COP TWIN BILL

Gator varsity and jayvee basketball teams gave the State students an early Christmas present by sweeping both ends of a cage twin bill the night before school closed for the Yuletide holidays.

Jack Byrne's 21 points led the varsity to a 62 to 48 victory over the Skagg's Island Naval Base quintet, although Spencer Martin sank 22 points for the sailors.

In a sloppily played preliminary, the baby Gators outlasted the Link-Belt Co. 48 to 41. Don Pagani's clever ball handling aided John Grantham and Elm Roelling to score 15 and 14 points, respectively.

Rose Bowlers Win Again; Fourth Straight in League

The Rose Bowlers were officially credited with their fourth straight intra-mural win yesterday when they won by forfeit from the All-Americans, although they came out on the short end of the score board 23 to 20. The All-Americans "loaded up" with players from other teams to gain the satisfaction of outscoring the Rose Bowlers, hence the forfeit.

Chico-State Again Tomorrow Night; Gators Play San Jose Wednesday

Boasting a record of four wins in seven starts, the Gators swing into a busy week-end tonight when they tangle with the casabateers from Chico State at Kezar Pavillion. The two clubs will meet at 8 p.m., with a tussle between the Gator JV and St. James High School preceding the main event. Chico and SF State will meet again Saturday night, this time at 7 p.m., as a preliminary to the Dardi-Denver American League fracas.

SPARTANS DEFEAT GATORS, 62-51

KEZAR PAVILION, Jan. 4.—The mighty Golden Alligators from S. F. State bowed down to inglorious defeat at the hands of a mightier Spartan aggregation from San Jose State, 62 to 51.

The Alligators, returning to the maplewoods for the first time since Christmas vacation, appeared to lack the drive and spirit that contributed in part to victories before. Countless fouls and unnecessary errors proved to be the destruction and downfall of a once potent casaba quintet.

Outstanding player of the evening was without a doubt George Maggetti, who scored with reckless abandon 25 points from all corners of the court. And back from last season's Spartan squad was Bud Holmes, that little nemesis who scored 32 points against the Alligators last year—single handedly trouncing the Farmer five.

On our side of the ledger, spectacular playing by Don Ellis and Jack Byrnes plus ever reliable Tom Collingwood saved the game from being a landslide.

Spartans Nose Out JV's in Overtime

KEZAR PAVILION, Jan. 4.—Baskets in an overtime period by Larry Sargent and Roy Jones gave the San Jose State junior varsity a 45 to 41 victory over the S. F. State jayvees in a hoop contest that was tied seven times.

Ed Murray's free throw with two seconds left tied the game at 41-41 at the end of the regular playing period. High point honors went to John Grantham, Gator center, who scored 19 digits.

The Chico State five will move into Kezar with a record of four games won and eight lost. The valley-ites have scored triumphs over College of Pacific, Fresno State, the San Diego Marines and Camp Weed. The visitors will be led by high scoring Tommy Tipton and Bill Jenkins, the two forwards. John Johnson at center and Bill Hocking and Eddie Gurrola at the guards will fill out the starting line-up for the Chico club.

Coach Dan Farmer has announced that the probable starting line-up for the Gators will be composed of forwards Mel Martin and Don Ellis, center Tom Collingwood, and guards Jack Byrne and Hal Fox.

San Jose Wednesday

Wednesday the Gators journey down to San Jose to take on the Spartans of San Jose State for the second time. In the first encounter the Spartans beat the Gators 62-51. Once again the Spartans will be sparked by the long-shooting Ed Maggetti, who chalked up 25 points against the Gators last Friday night. Unless unforeseen circumstances occur, the Gators will floor the same line-up against the Spartans as will face Chico.

Plans for transporting members of the State student body to San Jose have been made. The facts of the trip are contained in an article elsewhere in this paper. It is expected that a rather large group of Staters will journey down for the game, the last of a two-game series.

Rose Bowlers Win

Although outscored 23 to 18, the Rose Bowlers quintet won by forfeit from the Tennis Class to strengthen their hold on first place. When only one player from the Tennis team, Dick Bunker, showed up, he teamed up with four ringers to outscore the Rose Bowlers for the first time.

What's Doing In The Clubs

BETA PI SIGMA

At the final meeting this semester of Beta Pi Sigma, Dr. Herbert G. Johnstone of the University of California Medical School, spoke on tropical diseases. His lecture was centered around the causes, effects, and cures for malaria, and he also talked on dysentery and elephantiasis.

The last activity of the term will be a banquet next Friday night at the Isle of Capri Restaurant, at which time the new officers will be installed.

ALPHA MU GAMMA

Members of Alpha Mu Gamma, honorary language society, will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Baker on January 17, from 4 to 6, for a social meeting.

MUSIC FEDERATION

Music Federation members are requested to attend a mass meeting Monday, January 14, at which time candidates for Fed offices will be introduced.

The present Fed officers may run again, as the board of directors believes that a year is not too long for a term of office.

At the meeting, plans for a meeting of the Symphony Forum to be held here will also be discussed.

All petitions for office must be in by today at 4.

SIGMA PI SIGMA

Dr. Sherman Brown, director of teacher training, spoke on "The Value of Scholarship" at the semi-annual initiation tea given by Sigma Phi Sigma in the Activities Room last Tuesday afternoon.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Mr. Roy Freeburg of the music department will speak on music in the elementary school curriculum at a meeting of the elementary school teachers in San Carlos January 16. Mr. Freeburg will also demonstrate methods of sight reading and part singing from the state music text.

PARENT-FACULTY CLUB

The Parent-Faculty Club of State College held its regular meeting on Wednesday, January 9, in the Activities Room.

Mrs. Olive Thompson Cowell, a member of State's Social Science department, addressed the group on "One World in the Making." A trio and soloist, members of the music department, provided melody for the group, and refreshments and a social hour followed.

KAPPA DELTA PI

Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary society in education, entertained a group of students from Lincoln High School last Wednesday afternoon.

Pick Them Up in Summer

Lower division students will have an opportunity to satisfy requirements and speed up their college course during the coming summer session at the college, according to Dean P. F. Valentine.

"The war has somehow popularized the idea of getting through college as quickly as possible," Dean Valentine said. The 1946 summer session will endeavor to meet these demands in offering the following courses: English 1, Fundamentals of English; English 40, Children's Literature; Mathematics 2, General Applied Mathematics; Biological Science 6, Survey of Biology; Physical Science 1, Man and the Physical World; Physical Education 11ABC, Tennis; Psychology 1A, General Psychology; Social Science 20A, Introduction to Geography, and Government 40, Government of the United States.

"The Florist Shop" to Be Given by College Players Today in Little Theater

Date for Women's Medical Exams Set

Routine medical examinations for girls will begin February 4, according to Dr. Edna L. Barney, medical director. The examinations will be given to all girls who have entered in February terms, including the incoming freshmen.

DEAN WARD PRESENTS TYPEWRITER TO GATER

Though Christmas is past, memories linger for members of the Golden Gater staff.

For the Gater is richer by one typewriter than before the Christmas holidays. The donor of the much-needed machine is Dean Mary A. Ward.

It was December 13, the date of the publications party. Through the campus grape-vine, Dean Ward had learned of the dire need of journalism students for additional typewriters.

At the climax of festivities of the publications party, a large square box, done up in the approved yule-tide fashion, was introduced. Inside was a typewriter—not a new one, indeed, but it seemed a thing of beauty to the gathered journalists. And there was an accompanying note in which Dean Ward conveyed her Christmas greetings to the staff.

The staff in turn acclaimed their gratitude to Dean Ward for the typewriter. "It's just what we need," they chimed.

Ex-Gater Feature Editor Weds Flier

The wedding of Miss Naomi Jeffries to Lt. Ralph Glasson Jr. took place last Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. at the First Baptist Church in Burlingame.

Mrs. Glasson was feature editor of the Gater last term and editor-elect of the Franciscan. While on campus she was quite active in the International Relations Club and gained much notice for her poetry in the Gater.

The newlyweds plan to reside in Texas, where Lt. Glasson is stationed with the Army Air Corps. After his discharge in a year, they will return to college.

College Theatre presents "The Florist Shop," a one act play by Winifred Hawkrige at noon today in A12a, under the direction of Mary Falbo. All students are invited to attend.

Eleanore Fried, high freshman, plays the role of Maude, the talkative clerk in Mr. Slovosky's small-town florist shop.

Dorothy Menzel, active in debating groups as well as in dramatics, has the character part of Mr. Slovosky. She does an excellent interpretation of this old foreigner who runs the shop. Paula Moffatt, who did the oil painting of Abbie in "The Late Christopher Bean," shows her ability as a character actress in her portrayal of Miss Spellman.

Betty Cregg plays the office boy's part, and Ruth Williams portrays Mr. Jackson.

Little Theatre miniatures from the Play Production class will be on display in College Theatre. They are a project of the term's work.

Next Friday at noon the Voice and Diction class will present two choral readings — Vachel Lindsay's "Congo," and "The Lord's Prayer." Dramatic scenes from the acting class, Speech 125, will be presented next week. The scenes are from "The Stronger" and "Romeo and Juliet."

COLLEGE LIBRARY GIVEN SUBSCRIPTIONS TO FOUR OUTSTANDING MAGAZINES

Gift to the college library of subscriptions to four outstanding periodicals in the field of the social sciences, the donation of Mr. O.K. Cushing, San Francisco attorney, is announced by President J. Paul Leonard.

Expressing the gratitude of the college for the periodicals, Dr. Leonard conveyed his thanks on behalf of students and faculty in a personal letter to Mr. Cushing, whose donation indicates his interest in furthering knowledge of students in world affairs.

The periodicals include the Political Science Quarterly, the Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science, the Annals of the Academy of Political and Social Science, and International Affairs, a quarterly published by the Royal Institute of London.
